

Testimonial (Chris Drew)

I purchased a property in south-west Western Australia that had an encumbrance which I saw as a liability. This liability was a blue gum plantation that had been harvested 7 years previous, with little to no management following. As such I started looking at the cost of clearing.

I talked to a PF Olsen Australia employee (Dave Anderson) to determine whether there was any value in the crop that would assist in reducing my costs. Dave came back to me shortly after providing me with what I thought was a highly optimistic set of values. I didn't believe this estimate but decided it was worth proceeding, even if the returns were significantly less.

Dave was excellent in keeping me up to date with the status of the harvest schedule and PF Olsen Australia went out of their way to minimise the costs associated with the operation to maximise my return, which ended up being at the higher end of the estimate provided. They employed C3 Australia to complete the harvesting and I cannot speak highly enough of the professional and friendly manner with which they completed the operation.

Both PF Olsen Australia and C3 Australia went out of their way to provide me and my family with what I believed to be an unachievable goal and did so in a very professional and approachable manner.
